

PLAYA PISCADO

(Playa Grandi)

Way out West, this working fishermen's beach is home to turtles, Neptune and an interesting, vibrant reef.

Due to its proximity to the West point of the island, the reef is mostly hard corals and usually teeming with hundreds of types of fish. The regal King Neptune watches over his underwater kingdom at the top of the drop-off, and is a must-do photo opp.

Accessed via a working fishermen's beach, you're almost guaranteed to see turtles, chowing down on the leftovers from the fishermen's catch.

If you're lucky, you may see trigger fish and larger pelagics, more common on the wild North side, and pretty rare on the protected South side.
